Summary of reasons for decision:

This computer moving image file is classified as objectionable because it promotes and encourages criminal activity relating to intimate visual recordings (these are specific offences in the Crimes Act 1961) to such an extent and degree, and in such a manner, that its availability is likely to be injurious to the public good. The computer moving image file consists of video footage of a young woman that appears to have been filmed surreptitiously. Much of the footage focuses on the woman's body, and some explicitly depicts the woman engaged in sexual conduct. The purpose of the footage is the sexual gratification of the viewer. The classification of this publication interferes with the right to freedom of expression set out in the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990, but this is a reasonable and justified limitation on that right, given the high risk of injury to the public good.
